

AFFILIATE COMPLIANCE GUIDE

What You Must Know Before Promoting Dynasty Futures

As a Dynasty Futures Affiliate, you're promoting a simulated prop trading evaluation. Here are the basics you need to know to stay on the right side of the rules. Nothing complicated — just be honest, be transparent, and don't make claims you can't back up.

1. CFTC DISCLAIMER — WHEN RESULTS ARE SHOWN

If you post simulated trading results, P&L screenshots, or any performance-related numbers, include a disclaimer that makes clear those results are simulated and not guaranteed. The most common short-form used in the industry:

Recommended short-form disclaimer for posts that include results:

*"Results shown are simulated. Past performance is not indicative of future results.
CFTC Rule 4.41 applies."*

If your post doesn't include any results or performance data, you don't need the disclaimer at all.

2. AFFILIATE DISCLOSURE

You earn a commission on referred sales. A simple, visible disclosure keeps you covered. Most affiliates use a hashtag — that's fine.

Any of these works:

#ad | #sponsored | #affiliate | "affiliate link in bio"

Keep it visible — not buried at the bottom of a caption after 30 hashtags.

3. KEEP IT HONEST

YOU CAN:

Describe the program, tiers, and payout splits using info from our website

Share your genuine experience and opinion

Show your results — just include the short disclaimer above

Promote other prop firms — just not in the same post as Dynasty Futures

AVOID:

- ✗ Guaranteeing income, profits, or that someone will pass the evaluation
- ✗ Claiming Dynasty Futures is a live brokerage or involves real market money
- ✗ Promoting to audiences in Restricted Jurisdictions (dynastyfuturesdyn.com/legal)
- ✗ Using your own link to purchase a challenge (self-referral)

4. QUICK CHECK BEFORE YOU POST

- ☐ Affiliate disclosure is visible (#ad / #affiliate / etc.)
- ☐ No income guarantees or promises of success
- ☐ If showing results: short CFTC disclaimer is included
- ☐ Not promoting Dynasty Futures alongside a competing firm in the same post

5. QUESTIONS?

Reach us at support@dynastyfuturesdyn.com. If you're ever unsure about a piece of content, just ask — we're here to help you promote confidently.

QUESTIONS?

support@dynastyfuturesdyn.com • dynastyfuturesdyn.com/affiliates